USES OF A PIECE OF STRING.

Of Importance to the Woodsman in Many Emergencies, Both Big and Little.

A piece of string is often of great value to a hunter or fisherman. Stunt string, such as is used to tie up heavy bundles, is most valuable. Some sportsmen put a piece of string at a higher value than any other single part of the camp outfit—apart, of course, from the implements of sport.

If the fishing rod breaks, the string mends it again. If the suspenders break, the string ties the ends together. Should the gunstock break, the string is invaluable. If a pack basket strap fails, a string takes its place. A fear in a tent is sewed up with string. Game is hung up out of reach of animals with string. A lost man makes snares out of string and catches birds and rabbits enough to keep him from going hungry. Likewise a stout string will serve as a fishline in the absence of regular tackle. If the chain is lost, the dog may be led with a string. A hat can be anchored with a rope and cord.

In the absence of a string a substitute is made by cutting a strip as long as needed from a deer hide off which the hair has been taken. The woodsman prefers a rawhide string to all others, because it is much stronger, if properly cut, and the woodsman is very expert in cutting the string of even strength. Where the hide is thin he cuts a broad strip; where it is thick he cuts a narrow one. He prefers horsehide to buckskin, and a buckskin is better than a doe's.

A raft is easily made with a string and three or six logs, according to the size, and many a skin boat is saved with rawhide strings. With a piece of string in his pocket no man need starve or lack for sport, though lost and 40 miles from anybody. He can break off a hemlock branch, make a bow, use a slender sapling for an arrow, and shoot his game as the Indians did. If he has a jackknife, so much the better, but the string alone will do. Fire may be started in an unworked string by striking sparks into it from two hard rocks. A very important use of a string is stopping the flow of blood from a wound.

A strip of bark, with a round stone to press into the artery, and a string to tie tight over the bark, has saved many lives and will save more. The strip of bark prevents the string from cutting the flesh. In case of a broken leg a bark sheaf and a string keep the bones in place.—New York Sun.

Byron and Miss Pigot.
Elizabeth Bridget Pigot was a friend and correspondent of Lord Byron, who "lived at Southwell, with which place her mother's family was connected nearly all her life. In 1804, when 16 years old, Byron and his mother arrived there and occupied a house, Burgage Manor, opposite her mother's on Burgage Green. The Pigots received Byron within their circle as one of themselves. The first of Byron's letters which Moore prints was written to Miss Pigot. Byron, whom she described as a fat, bashful boy, was perfectly at home with her, and of an evening would listen to her playing and sing with her. In 1805 Byron left Southwell for Cambridge, but paid Miss Pigot occasional visits until 1807, and regularly corresponded with her till 1811. When he was at Southwell, she acted as his amanuensis. Byron addressed her in his letters at first as 'My Dear Bridget,' and afterward as 'Dear Susan Bess.' She nicknamed him her 'Tiny Lounghin.' To her Byron addressed the poem beginning 'Thine, what fools are the Musalmans sect!'

"About 1807 Miss Pigot was engaged to be married, but on the same day she happened to write two letters, one to her lover and the other to Lord Byron. By some mischance she inclosed them in the wrong covers, and the lover, receiving the letter intended for Byron, broke off the engagement. During the rest of her long life Miss Pigot amused herself and her friends with narrating the minute incidents of her intimacy with the poet, and presented to his admirers many scraps of his writing.  Miss Pigot died at her home in Easthorpe, at Southwell, Dec. 11, 1866, and was buried, aged 83, on the 16th. A packet of Byron's letters was said to have been buried with her."—Orieo.

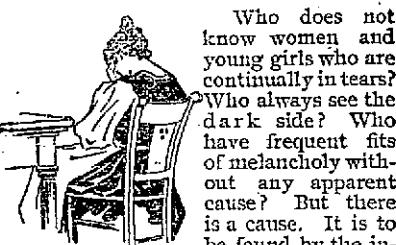

Deploable Ignorance.
General John McNeil, who was a brother-in-law of President Pierce and major general of the New Hampshire militia at one time, is said to have been considerably incensed when he met any one who appeared to be ignorant of the wounds and honors he had won on the field of battle.

During the war with Great Britain he was shot while mounted on his faithful horse, receiving a severe wound in the knee, which caused him to walk stiffly for the rest of his life.

"How did you hurt your knee, general?" asked a young man whom the old officer chanced to meet as a "whipper snapper" one day from a certain lack of respectfulness in his air and manner. "Did you have a fall?"

"Yes, sir," snorted the general indignantly. "I fell off a horse! You never read the history of your country, did you, sir?"—Youth's Companion.

Providence conceals itself in the details of human affairs, but becomes unveiled in the generalities of history.—Lamarine

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? But there is a cause. It is to be found by the intelligent physician in some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs of generation. The woman who half understands herself, feels that she cannot always be complaining; she cannot always have the doctor in the house. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. The trouble usually comes so gradually it is attributed to some outside cause. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. All these symptoms are simply protests of the silent, long-suffering nerves. The trouble shows in dark circles below the eyes, a downward curve of the mouth, a saw, brownish-yellow neck.

Unregarded, the trouble grows. A few years of tortured invalidism, probably insanity, before merciful death comes. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the fruit of years of study. It is the product of an investigating mind united with a generous nature. When an intelligent person gives years of study to a subject there must be some good result. The "Favorite Prescription" is a compound of extracts of herbs that makes a strengthening, soothing medicine. It acts directly upon the distinctly feminine organs. It stops drains from lining membranes by healing diseased parts, thereby curing also the inflammation that is always present. Often I was in despair. I experienced a great improvement by taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have taken six bottles, and I am sure that it will not only cure ulceration but all diseases of females. Yours truly,

(Mrs.) R. T. Rudd,

BATTILING FOR SILVER.

Senators Jones and Stewart and Representative Newlands of Nevada are in Chicago fighting for the silver cause. They are invited to the conferences of the silver Democrats and advise with the leaders as to the best course to pursue to circumvent the goldbugs. They are recognized by silver men of all parties, and consulted by silver Democrats, silver Republicans and Populists, and are doing more than any other three men from the Pacific Coast to harmonize conflicting elements and unify men of all parties who are opposed to the single gold standard.

Do not our Senators and Representatives deserve the thanks of all who are opposed to gold trust domination for their untiring efforts to unite in a solid phalanx all the silver men of the country and present an unbroken front to the common enemy?

Gold men and their auxiliaries say they ought to be in Nevada and find fault because they do not spend their time between sessions of Congress in the State. What good could they do the silver cause in Nevada? If the people of this State cannot learn enough from the object lessons everywhere to be seen since the single gold standard was adopted, the eloquence of Jones, the force of Stewart and the logic of Newlands could not convince them that the cause of the present depression is the financial policy of the Government which makes gold, of which there is not enough to pay interest on the debts of the people, the only standard of value.

Every intelligent person in the State knows that our Congressional delegation is doing a thousand times more for the cause of silver and the people, in the States east of the Mississippi, than they could do in the West, and commend them for their zeal, ability and energy in a cause upon the success of which depends the prosperity of nine-tenths of the people.

THE SILVER MEN ASSERT THEMSELVES.

The National Democratic Committee elected Senator Hill of New York for temporary Chairman of the National Convention. This did not suit the silver men and the minority of the committee recommended the election of Senator Daniel of Virginia. The majority of the convention was in accord with the minority of the committee and Daniel was elected by almost two-thirds majority. This indicates the relative strength of the silver and gold men in the convention. The silver men lack about thirty votes of having a two-thirds majority and unless the two-thirds rule is abrogated it may be difficult for them to nominate a candidate unless the gold men leave the convention.

Never before in a Democratic National Convention was the choice of the National Committee for temporary Chairman repudiated by the majority, but it has occurred in Republican conventions. In 1884 the Blaine men who were in a majority refused to allow the National Committee to control the temporary organization. However, it gave the gold men a lesson and proved that the silver men mean business and will frame a platform that will be unequivocally for free coinage and nominate a candidate whose record shows that he is in accord with the platform.

The gold men will probably bolt the convention, and it is to be hoped that they will, but it is doubtful if they nominate a candidate, as that would divide the gold element, at least to some extent, and lessen McKinley's chances.

McKINLEY'S SPEECH ANSWERED.

In the first speech of the campaign made by Mr. McKinley at Canton, Ohio, he said:

"We are all ready and anxious to get back to the period of 1892, when this country was enjoying the highest prosperity."

This the Silver Knight answers by quoting the following from Bradstreet's: "Business failures in 1892, one hundred and fourteen millions of dollars; strikes in 1892, one thousand two hundred and ninety-eight; lockouts, seven hundred and eighteen, including Homestead, where Pinkerton's thugs shot down men, women and children, not to dwell on the butcheries of laborers at Cour d'Alene and in Tennessee by militia and United States troops."

TO THE POINT.

One of the stock arguments of the gold conspirators, says the Silver Knight, is that England has a large stock of idle money which she is anxious to loan to us if we will only be "good" and maintain the unscrupulous single gold standard. What if England has? Let her keep her ill gotten money, wallow in it and be crushed to death with the dead burden of it! We have silver mines which produce all the money we want, money which will be as good as England's gold if we undo the treacherous work of John Sherman and Grover Cleveland. Let us coin our own money.

CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Hill Defeated for Chairman by a Large Majority.

SILVER MEN TO THE FRONT.

Daniel of Virginia Elected Temporary Chairman.

Chicago, July 7.—The convention was called to order at 12:50 p. m. by Chairman Harrity of the National Committee, who reported Hill as the choice of the National Committee for temporary chairman. This announcement was greeted with great cheering from all parts of the convention hall.

Clayton of Alabama rose to move that the name of Senator Daniel be substituted for that of Hill. Clayton received an immense demonstration. The roll of States was demanded on Clayton's motion to substitute Daniel for Hill. A discussion of Clayton's motion followed. Each mention of Hill or Daniel elicited cheers.

Waller of Connecticut urged that Hill be chosen. He said he could stand any candidate the convention may nominate. The gold men are in the convention to stay, he said, but he appealed for courtesy and fair treatment in upholding Democratic precedents. Waller suggested as a compromise that Hill be elected temporary and Daniel permanent chairman.

Waller concluded by saying: "If Hill is turned down the Eastern Democrats will fight you here and elsewhere." This threat was received with mingled cheers and hisses from all parts of the hall.

Thomas of Colorado advocated the choice of Daniel, saying that the convention should carry out the wishes of a large majority of the convention and select Daniel. Waller of Alabama and Tarpey of California, who held a Nevada proxy, advocated the choice of Daniel.

Duncan of Texas and Ladd of Illinois spoke favoring Daniel. Ladd says that if Hill made a speech as temporary Chairman it would keep the party explaining it until election. When St. Clair of West Virginia advocated Hill in reference to free coinage he was loudly cheered. "If you silver men," said St. Clair, "are afraid to have the financial question discussed by a man like Hill, then how will the question and your attitude bear general discussion throughout the country?"

Clayton of Alabama spoke for Daniel. Clayton referred to Hill's Elmir silver speech, the reference arousing cheers and laughter. A call of States was then ordered on the motion to substitute the name of Daniel for Hill as temporary Chairman. Down to and including Iowa the vote was in favor of the motion by 200 against 26. The vote of Kentucky was challenged and the name of Blackburn was cheered. The votes of Ohio and Michigan were also challenged and the roll of delegates was ordered called.

The motion to substitute Daniel for Hill as temporary Chairman was carried—for, 554; against, 348. Daniel voted no, and Hill refrained from voting.

The official vote in favor of the motion was 556 against 349; not voting, 1. The announcement of the vote caused great cheering on the part of the silver men.

Upon a vote substituting Daniel for Hill, the chair said: "The motion by the gentleman from Alabama substituting Senator Daniel of Virginia for temporary Chairman is adopted," and there was a great manifestation of applause.

The chair then said that unless otherwise instructed he would regard this as a practical rejection of the majority report and would not put the question of adoption to the convention.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, R. P. Keating of Nevada, and Senator White of California were appointed to escort Senator Daniel to the platform. As the committee appeared on the platform with the Virginia Senator the demonstration of the silver men was renewed.

Harrity said: "Gentlemen of the convention I have the honor of introducing as your temporary Chairman, Hon. John W. Daniel of Virginia."

Senator Daniel said: "Mr. Chairman of the National Democratic Convention—In receiving from your hands this gavel as the authority of the presiding officer of this convention, I beg leave to express the sentiment, which I am sure is unanimous, that no National Convention was ever presided over with more ability or more fairness than by yourself. [Cheers and cries for Harrity.]

"I can express no better wishes for myself than that I may be able, in some feeble way, to follow the course which you have given me as an example. The position, gentlemen, to which you have chosen me, involves both great personal honor and keen responsibility. For the honor I thank you. The responsibility I would be wholly inadequate to bear, did I depend on myself, but your gracious aid will make it light and its burden light. That aid I consider to invoke for my behalf under whose banners I've fought so many battles, and which now demands of us such staunch devotion and such loyal service.

"I regret that my name should have been brought, even in the most courteous manner, in conflict with that of my distinguished friend, the great Senator from New York. [Applause.]

"But the very fact that I have permitted it to be done refutes the assertion that has been imprudently made, that either I or those whom I have the honor to represent, would ever heap indignity upon that brave and illustrious head. [Great applause.] No dispassionate judgment, gentlemen, can ever misinterpret your meaning. The Senator from New York himself must know, as I know, as you all know, that there is no personality in the preference which has been given me. You must know, and the whole country that watches these proceedings must know, it is solely due to principle that this great majority of Democrats stand for me, and that they know I stand for them. [Applause.]

"The birth of the Democratic party was co-eval with the birth of sovereignty of the people. It can never be destroyed until the declaration of American Independence is forgotten. [Great applause.] I am happy to know gentlemen, that as a majority of this convention is not personal, neither in any sense is it sectional. It sticks like a tar-heal down in the old North State and it writes 16 to 1 on the saddle of the Arkansas traveler.

"It stands guard around the National Capitol in the District of Columbia. [Cheers.] And it camps on the frontier of Oklahoma. It sweeps like prairie fire over Iowa and Kansas and puts up its head on the confines of Nebraska. It masses its battalions all through Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Mississippi. But by far from least when I see this grand array and think of the British gold standard that was recently inflicted upon Republican promise at St. Louis, I think, too, of the battle of New Orleans on which it is said, 'There stood John Bull in marshal pomp, but there was old Kentucky.' [Applause.]

"There is no east or west, north or south in this uprising of people for American emancipation from the conspiracy of European thugs, led on by Britain, which seeks to stifle all the money in the world and kill American manufacturers and mechanics.

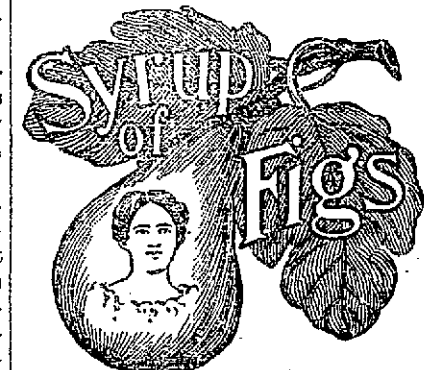

"Forget not the greed of devils, for absolute acquiescence in the will of the majority is the vital principle of the Republic. Democrats as you have been, Democrats as I hope you will ever be, acquiesce gracefully to the will of this convention, and for myself I only ask to go with them as they have often gone with you. [Applause.] Do not forget that for thirty years we have supported men that you have named for President. Seymour, Greeley, Tilden, Hancock, and twice Grover Cleveland. Do not forget that we have submitted cheerfully to your compromise platform, and we have patiently borne repeatedly disappointments as to their fulfillment. Do not forget that at least in the convention of the party in 1892, you proclaimed yourselves to be in favor of the use of both gold and silver as standard money of the country, for the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal; that the only question left open was the ratio. Do not forget that just four years ago in a Democratic convention in this city, the New York delegation stood here solidly and immovably for the candidate of free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1, and if we are still for it let it not be forgotten we owe it in some measure to their teachings.

"The active business men of this country, its manufacturers, merchants and farmers know that the contraction

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

LAKE TAHOE.

The Great Summer Resort of the Pacific Coast—Growth of Visitors and Excursions the Order of the Day.

Never before in the history of Lake Tahoe has such an influx of people occurred and it will be only a question of a year or so until the lake will be recognized as the resort of the Pacific coast. During the coming fall and spring extensive improvements will be made and it is safe to say that the inconveniences of travel which have heretofore been experienced by people at the lake will be overcome with the completion of a new electric railroad between Truckee and Tahoe City.

At McKinney's guests are being turned away daily and notwithstanding the room and accommodations in the new hotel constructed last fall, members of the excursion from San Francisco yesterday who wished to stop at this point had to be continued on to Emerald Bay and Tallac.

The "Tahoe" has been making regular trips since the 1st and the magnificent little steamer will do much toward encouraging travel and bring Lake Tahoe to the front in the line of summer resorts.

Last evening an excursion was run from Glenbrook to this point and the "Tahoe" was ablaze with light. The magnificent electric search light is a wonder in itself, the brilliant ray of light cast upon the water and the shore is one of the most beautiful and gorgeous sights ever witnessed in this section of the country. The excursionists remained at this point until 10 o'clock and participated in a grand ball which was enjoyed by all.

This afternoon visitors were treated to a genuine thunder storm on the lake. While the sun was shining rain fell and produced the effect of thousands of little seething fountains. It was a grand sight.

Yesterday an excursion of ninety-five San Francisco people arrived at the lake under the management of Wm. H. Menton, excursion passenger agent for the S. P. Co. in San Francisco. They were conveyed around the lake on the "Tahoe" and a delightful time was had. Several more excursions of a similar character are expected before the season closes.

The steamer "Meteor," which is at present an excursion boat, is chartered frequently and many pleasant trips occur at reduced prices.

The trial trip of the "Tahoe" will not occur for about one month, at which time the managers of the Union Iron Works will return to the lake. Her exact speed of course is only surmised, but at present while only turning 200 revolutions per minute where she can turn 400, she attains a speed of twenty miles an hour on her regular runs and it is probable that her exact speed will be between twenty-five and thirty miles per hour. Jno. D. O'Brien, McKinney's, Lake Tahoe, July 5th.

LUNDEN NOTES.

The High School Department of the Austin public schools held its annual commencement at the International Hall on the evening of Friday last.

Notwithstanding that an admission fee was charged to defray necessary expenses and add to the school library and apparatus, the hall was filled to overflowing. The stage had been elaborately decorated with the class colors, red and blue and flowers had been prettily entwined among the decorations while above was suspended across the hall a wide streamer bearing the class motto, "From School Portals to the world of duty." Out of a class of sixteen or seventeen, eleven had proven themselves qualified and were to receive the coveted prizes their diplomas. After the exercises, consisting of a salutatory address, several essays, an original class poem, and the valedictory, Superintendent W. D. Jones, in his usual fluent and pleasing style, delivered an address and presented the diplomas. He said that while a graduate might justly feel a pride in what he had accomplished, in reality he had only learned how little he really knew and the need of advancing farther. He paid the members of the class and their instructor a high compliment upon what had been accomplished during the past year.

After the graduation exercises were completed, a short, laughable drama was rendered by some of the members of the class.

The exercises were interspersed with music by the Austin Brass Band. All in all the evening was one to be pleasantly remembered by all. C. Austin, Nev., July 1, 1896.

The Silver and Populist Conventions. The Silver State, whose editor is one of the delegates to the St. Louis convention, which meets on the 22d inst., says the Nevada delegation will leave on train No. 3 July 17th, by way of the Union Pacific to Kansas City; thence over the Chicago & Alton, arriving at St. Louis about 7 o'clock on Monday, July 20th. The California delegation will go on the same train and the People's party delegates from California and Nevada will most likely take the same train.

CHICAGO CONVENTION.

of currency sweeps away with silent and restless forces of gravity, the fruits of their enterprise and investments. They know, too, that the gold standard means the contraction and organization of disaster. What hope is there for the country and what hope is there for Democracy if the views of the majority are to be abrogated? The people know it was not silver legislation but legislation by the advocates of the gold standard that has caused and now causes financial depression.

"The money question is the paramount issue before the American people, and it involves true Americanism more than any issue ever presented at an election."

Daniel finished at 4:19 p. m. when there were cries for Hill. Hill did not respond.

A resolution thanking Harry for the impartial discharge of his duties was unanimously carried.

A roll of States was ordered for the appointment of committees and at 4:45 p. m. the convention adjourned till 10 a. m. to-morrow.

Bland continues to gain in strength, but not enough to nominate. Yet many delegates recognize that Teller made the issue for the campaign, and while they honor and esteem him, they fear the name Republican and the attempt to Grozelize the convention. The fight is now between the silver candidates, with Teller the second choice of the Bland men. McLeod's nomination for Vice President is conceded.

Nevada names R. P. Keating for National Committee man.

After a session to-night of nearly three hours, the gold men, under the leadership of Whitney, adopted a resolution that a committee of one or more be appointed from each State to confer with the people in reference to their temper concerning the organization on a sound money platform, and how far such an organization should go in an independent action.

The vote to-day showed, silver 48 short of a two-thirds, but in many respects it was not a test vote. Eight votes in South Dakota for Hill, on a square issue for silver. Three votes in West Virginia the same way.

The Territories have only two votes but will be given six on permanent organization, except the District of Columbia and Alaska. Alaska was admitted for the first time to a Democratic National Convention, but sent six gold delegates to a silver body and it is said, will be punished for their "freseness." This will give the Territories twenty more votes, all but three for silver. Nebraska sixteen will be turned over to silver. Florida will give five for silver and three for gold. Maryland will give eleven to silver and five for gold on candidates but will stand twelve for gold and four for silver on platform.

This will give nearly the required two-thirds. If it should still lack a few votes the silverites have Michigan to fall back on. A decision in favor of silver men in one or two contested districts would convert under the unit rule 28 gold men to 28 silver men and give a sure two-thirds majority.

The silver men on the Committee on Permanent Organization to-night nominated Senator White of California for Chairman of the Convention by a vote of 32 to 6. Mr. Googan of Cincinnati for Secretary.

There is opposition to Martin for Sergeant-at-Arms. It was manifested because of his inability exhibited at today's session but it failed to defeat him. The nomination of White was a surprise for it was thought Harris would be the man, but many are of the opinion that the two chairmen should not be from the South.

The Committee on Resolutions has recommended that the Territories and the District of Columbia be entitled to six votes.

McDermott of New Jersey, a gold man, desired the financial plank constructed by a full Committee on Resolutions instead of a sub-committee and made an aggressive speech intimating that delegates of the East would not support a free coinage plank. This was construed by the silver men to mean a bolt and Senator White replied to the threat in an energetic fashion. Among other things, White said he for one would never dare go into a National Convention whose final edict he intended to repudiate. Has he, said White, referring to McDermott, never learned that the constitution of the United States made silver equal with gold and the money of the land; if he thinks it necessary to the perpetuation of democracy that he must lie down to the tyrannical power of gold let him go. Motion to favor a sub-committee was carried.

Senator Hill said that he hopes through the argument that will be advanced that the conservative members will modify the original intention of the silver leaders to have a radical plank. On the other hand Jones and Tiltman make positive assertions that the financial plank must declare for 16 to 1 in language that cannot be misunderstood.

The Credentials Committee decided by a vote of 27 to 16 to seat the contesting silver delegates of Michigan, thus giving 28 votes to silver; the Nebraska delegates were also seated.

John Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a minister of the Methodist-Episcopal Church for 50 years or more, and have never found any thing so beneficial, or that gave such a speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." LUXURIOUS EUGENIE.

Under Her Rule Paris Became a Scene of Extravagant Fairytale.

There was a sort of intoxication in the very atmosphere of Paris, a fever of enjoyment—a passion for constant amusement, for constant excitement, and among women for extravagance in dress. This was encouraged by the court, with the intention of giving an impetus to trade and of gaining popularity by favoring constant festivities, and consequently constant expense. In the days of Louis Philippe there had been great moderation in all matters of luxury; the king and queen were aged, sensible and economical; the young princesses were kept within rigid bounds by example above them. But when the emperor came to the throne, after a period of revolution and consequent commercial stagnation, he wished to revive trade, and also to give the prestige of splendor to a court which so many did not seem to take in earnest. His beautiful wife, suddenly raised to a supreme position for which nothing in her previous life had prepared her, finding what seemed unlimited means within her reach, keenly enjoyed the possibility of procuring everything that pleased her, and enhanced her remarkable personal attractions by all the advantages of exquisite toilet without consideration of cost.

Everything that she wore suited her admirably. Others tried to imitate her, and the general tone became raised. She had the art of constantly choosing something new and unusual, which attracted attention, so that, instead of being satisfied with conventional types of silks and satins, which formerly had been considered sufficient for all occasions, every one tried to invent something different from others and to improve upon what had been seen before. Consequently, not only in dress, but in all matters of taste and luxury, there was an eager struggle to outvie others, to reach a higher degree of splendor, and extravagance became universal. Paris was a sort of fairytale, where every one seemed rich and happy. What lay underneath all this would not bear close examination—the dishonorable acts of all kinds which too often were needed to produce the glamour deceiving superficial observers—"Life in the Tuilleries," by Anna L. Bicknell.

A WOMAN'S COURAGE.

She Killed a Cobra, Saved Her Husband and Then Fainted.

"Women," remarked a rather patronizing young man, "possess a certain courage of endurance, but when it comes to the facing of an alarming danger they weaken and succumb to nerves."

"I hate to be personal," said a woman, "but I once faced what you will admit was an alarming danger. My husband, who was stationed in India, was stricken down by fever. On the day the crisis was expected the doctor said that his life hung on a thread, but there was still a chance of recovery if he should fall into a natural sleep which remained unbroken for a certain length of time."

"After hours of tussling and moaning I had the joy of seeing him pass into slumber, which grew more natural as I sat, always holding my breath, across the room. When hope was becoming joyful assurance, through the long window a large hooded cobra glided into the room and made straight for the bed, raising its head and coiled itself."

"For one horrible instant I was paralyzed, while the snake reared and snarled about to insinuate itself among the pillows. But it dropped and coiled itself on the floor beside the bed. The power of motion returned to me, and I crept across the room, raised my foot and ground my heel into the flattened head with its coldly glittering eyes. The creature writhed furiously, coiled itself around my ankle like a vice, but I held my ground till the folds relaxed and I knew the snake was dead. The doctor found me on the floor in a dead faint when he called. My husband recovered rapidly, and treasured as his dearest possession a worn kid slipper."

Why Spitz Quit.

Germany has been on the verge of a cabinet crisis for several weeks. The first warning of the trouble among the highest officials of the empire was given by the fall of General von Spitz. Nobody has explained just why Spitz fell, but in an article that attempts to do so the Cologne Gazette suggests reasons that probably will seem more than sufficient to persons outside Germany. The Gazette says that it was incumbent upon him in his department to attend to the Straßfollstreckungsangelegenheiten, the Militärgefängniswesen and the whole Militärjustizwesen. Besides, his office required that he take charge of all the bills regarding the Militärprozessordnung and consult with the chancery as to the supreme Reichsmilitärgerichtshof. Is it any wonder, then, that when he foresaw the failure of the Militärstrafprozessordnung he felt moved by Gesundheitsrückichten to quit?

A Friend in Need.

"My dear friend, I must ask you to lend me at once 100 marks. I have left my purse at home, and I haven't a farthing in my pocket!"

"I can't lend you 100 marks just now, but I can put you in the way of getting the money at once!"

"You are extremely kind!"

"Here's two pieces. Ride home on the tram and fetch your purse!"—Neueste Nachrichten.

TO MABEL.

Though Mabel, scarce an hour is past,
Since first you opened that romance,
Already now to "Part the Last."
You turn a surreptitious glance
Way, away soon enough you'll learn
The fate of each flitting friend:
You've scarcely done with chapter one
Before you want "to know the end."

The heroine's stuporous feats,
The hero's indignation fits,
At which the wicked duke retreats,
Quite routed all along the line,
The noble deeds, the stirring scenes,
To none of these will you attend
Till certain quite that all comes right,
That marriage bells are at the end.

Well, if the bard might moralize,
He would remark, I think, that man,
Throughout existence, ever tries
To imitate your simple plan.
In guessing what is still to come
Long days with scant result we spend;
We, too, would look throughout the book:
We, too, would like to know the end.

And yet I venture to maintain
To read your stories through were best,
A course whereby their plots would gain
No inconsiderable zest.

So, Mabel, in the tale of life,
Whatever lot the fates may send,
Fulfill each duty as best you may,
Nor strive too soon to know the end.

For Your Protection.—Catarrh "Cures" or Tonics for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either mercury or iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat. Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and, if repeatedly neglected, the result is catarrh of the nose; never pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and oftentimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
